A. Overview

The Kerr-Tar Regional Council of Governments (KTRCOG) seeks the professional services of a qualified consultant to conduct a Community Broadband Assessment and develop a Broadband Infrastructure Strategy for four counties in the Kerr-Tar region of North Carolina (hereinafter “Project”). The Project will be administered by the KTRCOG and funded by the counties of Franklin, Granville, Vance and Warren. The KTRCOG is the council of government for North Carolina’s Region K, which includes the 5 counties north of the Research Triangle region of North Carolina. The KTRCOG provides technical assistance to the local governments in our region and facilitates partnerships to reach regional goals.

The Project covers Franklin, Granville, Vance and Warren Counties. The purpose of this project is to develop a plan to advance broadband infrastructure investment in the region by conducting community assessments/profiles; creating RFP’s to expand broadband availability and creating a broadband strategic roadmap for the four counties. The project will fund broadband community assessment/profiles for the counties by reviewing existing inventory, conducting consumer and business surveys and mapping the demand aggregation. Based on the demand aggregation results, an RFP will be developed to solicit broadband service providers. The consultant will manage the RFP process and assist with contracts with selected vendors.

An expectation of the consultant will be to educate local government elected officials and managers on topics such as legal and regulatory matters, net neutrality, “broadband friendly” policies and administrative procedures for local governments, and types of public/private partnership models.

The consultant will meet with communities to identify findings, share information and ideas, and discuss emerging strategies. The consultant will combine findings into a comprehensive Broadband Infrastructure Strategy.
